MPORTER OF A SECTION 1970 WELL

In the Franchise Bill sent down by the Governor, and now before the Legislative Council, the only difference between a voter and a member is that the latter shall be six months longer in the country than the former, and that the member shall not be a minister of any religious denomination. Al- sowing by though we find no justification for prohibiting a minister from being a member,—more particularly, as it is notorious that the exclusion of ministers from the British Parliament able implement. was owing to the hatred of the Court party in the days of George III. to that so-called radi-cal, Horne Tooke—still, we think the proposed qualification of members just and liberal, and edapted to the peculiar state of this country. But, to the surprise of the House yesterday, those two eminent Executive Councillors, Helmeken and Carrall, had plotted against the free choice of the electors of this country, and the latter, we are sorry to say, became the agent to propose the obnoxious provision of a property qualification for members to the Council. This was a surprise; and not merely a surprise, but it was a gross attempt to limit the people—the electors—to select-ing representatives only from those who owned real estate worth $1500, free from all incumbrance, or possess personal property worth $2,000. The attempt to cheat the peo-ple out of their right to qualify themselves as ple out of their right to qualify themselves as voters was so transparent, and proved such an unmitigated failure, that our Parliamentary Gny Fawkes, attempted in an unexpected mement to affect their franchise by restricting them in the choice of representatives. In this respect, Dr. Carrall became the mere out's-paw of our political Gny Fawkes,—a public man who has not the honor or credit of originating or proposing a single measure during the thirteen years that he has been in political life; that deserves to be dignified with the name of statesmanship. Leaving. political life; that deserves to be dignified with the same of statesmanship. Leaving, however, the principal and accessories in this plot against the free choice of the Electors, let us examine this question. First and foremost then, let us ask the common sense of the people of the Colony, whether they require a property qualification of members? If they say yes, we then ask any man to tell us why the Governor, who draws his $20,000 a year, is not compelled to have a property qualification? He holds and exercises the prerogalives of the Queen.—he signs the death prerogatives of the Queen,—he signs the death warrant of all condemned to be executed in the Colony,—he pardons the condemned, he assents to every Law,—he executes or superintends the execution of the Laws,—he presides in the highest office of the country, presides in the highest office of the country,—yet he is virtually a stranger,—a bird of passage, here to-day and away to-morrow, and holds not a dellar's worth of real estate, nor is he sequired to do so. All that is required of him, is that he is a subject and had been deemed qualified to fill the position. Now we ask is a known resident of the country to be weighed down. resident of the country to be weighed down with gold, or golds worth before he can be a member of the Legislature when strangers, mendicant patriots like Governor Kennedy are allowed to exercise the highest duties of the country. Take again the Chief Justice, the Puisne Judge, the County Court Judges, the Chief of the Lands and Works, the Col enial Secretary, the Attorney General, the Collector of Customs and all the other officials, ministerial, judical, and legislative, and what property qualification is required of them? The reply is nothing but manhood and capacity. Why then,—what sense is there in asking for a property qualification of members? members? Are legislators such an inferior race of men, that unless they have $1,500 or $2,000 in their breeches pocket, they cannot be trusted with making laws, that have to be assented to by a governor who is virtually a stranger and who has not nor is be expected to invest a dollar in the country? Are the hundreds of electors in each constituency unfit to solicit a competent man to represent them? If the Government is to be according to the well understood wishes of the people, how can it be, if voters are deprived of selecting men of capacity having their confidence. ing men of capacity having their confidence; but are forced by statute to accept a fellow not for his brains, capacity, integrity or pat-riotism but for his dollars? When a man selects an agent, he asks not whether he is worth a dollar or a million; but whether he has honesty and capacity. A member is but an agent of a constituency, clothed with discretionary power to do the best for his constituents and the country that he can. Yet, will any one, contrary to all business notions, argue that a merchant must select a clock with the money qualification first; or that a litigant must not fee a poor lawyer with brains and legal knowledge; but must be confined in his selection to a real estate ewing clerk, or a two-thousand dollar owning lawyer? The thing on general principles is so perfectly preposterous. is so perfectly preposterous,—so contrary to business usages, so adverse to all notions of qualification for men in the highest position in the army, navy, executive, judiciary, and Parliament of Great Britain, that we are surrised that any one, except for some vile arty purpose, would even dare to protrude set a remnant of the slavish past into a legislative body. A property qualification has acrer been of any value in selecting good es, Scotland never had men of straw to represent her; yet she never had a property qualification for members. England never had a property qualification till the days of Queen Am; and it was so often violated, so westbless,—so restrictive on the choice of the electors, that in 1858 it was driven from the statute book never to be restored. In the states there is no property qualification. Here, then, we have thirty millions in Great Britain, and thirty-five millions in the United States, the two most advanced representative states of mankind—without such a drag on beadem. Yet we are asked to endorse such Yet we are asked to endorse such a stapid remnant of the party tyrany of a pass age which some of our Solons, in their bitahiem, werehip, not as political wisdom, but as a miserable trick to try and get the cataly, its patronage and power in their

EASTERN STATES. WASHINGTON, Feb. 27- Attorney General ckerman, in his opinion recently rendered in regard to the right of the Oregon Central Railroad and Telegraph Company to assign its lands, franchise, and all its privileges to the Willamette Valley Railroad Company said : That, except the first section, no part of the act suggests even the suspicion tha Congress, when it passed the law, supposed no provision in the Bill for any transfer of to be pertormed by the company. If this perform these stipulations. If the transfer ponsible, companies, instead of one respon sible company. As to the expression in the first section, "their successors and assigns," the Attorney General holds that it is only in this case made, does not contain any agreement on the part of the Willamette Valley Railroad Company to issue bonds and execute mortgages, as the Oregon Central was required to do, but only to build a railroad and telegraph line. The opinion closes with the following remark : "I have not entered into the general question of the rights of corporation to transfer its franchise, without special authority from the Legislature."
